

The conference venue

The conference venue will be the University of Stavanger. The University lies a couple of kilometres outside the city centre and is situated in very beautiful surroundings amidst hills and fjords. The campus is recently built and set into a countryside landscape, and includes a small Botanic Gardens. The conference will be held in the Kjell Arholm Building (Kjell Arholms Hus), which hosts Health and Social Sciences.

Lunches and coffee breaks are included in the conference fee. All University buildings have cafeterias (although some of them close fairly early).

A bus service will be provided to transport delegates from the city centre to the conference venue in the mornings and back in the evenings. There are also excellent connections by public transport, with bus departures from the city centre at least four times an hour (nos 6, 7 and X60). A single bus ticket costs 24 NOK (ca 2.5 EUR or GBP). A taxi ride between the city centre and the university takes less than 10 minutes and costs ca 180 NOK (ca 19 EUR or GBP).
